Evelyn Dunnagan: I've worked with Ann on many PSALA projects since she became a member of our chapter. She is always willing to take on projects and fulfill her commitments. I have always been impressed by the detailed and thoughtful responses Ann has on our Listserv. Her HR knowledge is exceptional and she thinks outside the box and is willing to look at issues from many angles. She brings her experience in other industries to our discussions and is always willing to listen to the opinions of others.

Ann has been an excellent chapter leader. She jumped right in when she joined the Chapter, volunteering for various roles on the board, such as co-chairing the Diversity Committee and the Visibility Committee. She was a productive chapter President, starting us off on our board leadership initiative and she held a fine retreat on Vashon for her incoming board and the board members who were ending their terms.

Ann demonstrates the Spirit of PSALA in her commitment to her firm and in her willingness to go the extra mile in her involvement in ALA and PSALA. She is recognized at the local and national level as a stellar level management professional. I am very happy she is being recognized with this award.

Lisa Sterritt: Ann has served in multiple capacities over many years for this Chapter, having won the Volunteer of the Year award in 2016. She has also served the association at the national level participating on nominating committees and I believe conference planning committees as well.

Throughout her tenure she has welcomed and treated newcomers and long-term members with dignity and respect. And is one of the best examples of inclusive and servant leadership I have had the privilege to know.

Frances Dujon Reynolds: Ann has always been someone I could turn to in order to discuss HR issues with a consummate professional whom I trust understands all the nuances and challenges of the HR profession. She is open to sharing her great ideas and experiences and learning from others. I value her thoughtful approach and dedication to service. She is an amazing colleague who I value highly.
